1. The Registrar General of all High Courts of States/UTs

2. The Director of Judicial Academies of all States/UTs

Subject: Holding of Judicial Colloquium on Human Trafficking

Madam/Sir,

Migration in search of better employment opportunities is a common phenomenon, with persons moving from one place to another, including across States and, in many cases, to foreign countries. Such migration may render individuals vulnerable to trafficking and exploitation. The forms of exploitation associated with trafficking are varied and may include forced labour, prostitution, forced marriages, domestic servitude, as well as other illicit activities such as organ trade and smuggling.

2. The victims of human trafficking are often subjected to grave forms of abuse and exploitation, including physical violence, sexual abuse, harassment, threats and coercion. In certain cases, trafficking may also result in loss of life. The adverse impact of human trafficking extends beyond individual victims and has wider national as well as international ramifications. Given its complex and multifaceted nature, addressing the issue effectively requires concerted efforts at the local, regional and global levels.

3. Effective prevention and combating of human trafficking continues to be affected by challenges such as inadequate public awareness, insufficient training of officials and non-registration of cases under the relevant laws. In this regard, regular exchange of information, sensitization of judicial and police officers, collaboration with civil society organizations and capacity-building of officials are important measures. Strengthened cooperation and communication among State Governments, as well as with neighbouring countries, would further contribute towards addressing human trafficking effectively.

4. To meet the objective of sensitizing the Judicial Officers of States and UTs on issues relating to trafficking in persons, the Ministry of Home Affairs has been engaging with the Judicial Academies of all States/UTs for organizing Judicial Colloquiums on Anti-Human Trafficking from time to time. Under the scheme of the Ministry of Home Affairs, financial assistance of up to Rs. 2 lakh is provided for each such Judicial Colloquium organized in a State/UT. The Guidelines for holding Judicial Colloquiums on Anti-Human Trafficking are enclosed for reference.

5. In view of the foregoing and considering the importance of sensitizing Judicial Officers on various aspects of human trafficking, it is requested that Judicial Colloquium on Anti-Human Trafficking may kindly be organized in your State/UT in accordance with the enclosed Guidelines.

Yours sincerely,

Encl.: As above.
